DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 2 is objected to because of the following informalities: Although claim 2 is not indefinite, Applicant may have intended claim 2 to be a dependent of claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Adoma.

Adoma teaches in the figures throwable implement comprising a disk-shaped body (fig. 1), a convex first surface and concave second surface (fig1) and a plurality of flexible fingers (8) disposed in a first circle on the second surface and the first circle having a center essentially concentric with an axis of rotation of the implement. On the hand, given a different interpretation of the claim, Adoma may fail to teach a plurality of flexible fingers. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate a plurality of flexible fingers on the implement of Adoma for the purpose of retaining the compact disk.

Claims 1, 2 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Adoma.

Art Unit: 3714

Adoma teaches in the figures most of the elements of the claimed invention. However, Adoma may not teach a plurality of fingers disposed in a first circle on said second surface. Adoma teaches on page 5 that clamping device 8 is constructed in a known manner so that the compact disk can be locked in the opening 10. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate a plurality of fingers in the throwable implement of Adoma for the purpose of the retaining the compact disc.

Claims 1-5 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Adoma in view of Nusselder (US Patent #4,535,888) or Otsuka et al (US Patent #4,793,479).

Adoma teaches in the figures most of the elements of the claimed invention. However, Adoma may not teach a plurality of flexible fingers having a cantilever portion, a crooked portion, and a ridge portion attached to the second surface of the body. Nusselder teaches in the figures a storage cassette for compact discs having plurality of flexible fingers having a plurality of flexible fingers having a cantilever portion, a crooked portion, and a ridge portion attached to surface body (9, 10, 11). Otsuka et al teaches the it is well known in the prior art to have a plurality of flexible fingers having a cantilever portion, a crooked portion, and a ridge portion attached to body (16) for the attachment of compact discs as seen in fig. 1a, 1b, 2a, 2b. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate a plurality of flexible fingers, having the claimed features noted above, as suggested by Nusselder or Otsuka et al for the clamping retention means of Adoma for the purpose of easily mounting and demounting the compact disc.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
